

Title: The Music Continues

Segment	Time	Visuals/Audio/Narration	Purpose/Point
Introduction	0:00 – 0:12	B-ROLL: Fade in on high school band in a parade.	To establish the scene and familiarize audiences with the setting.
		NAT SOUND: Whistle blows to start band. Band playing. VO: “On July 18, 2026 former Lincoln high school band students gathered to honor Dr. Robert Hansbrough—a teacher many haven’t seen in years, but none have forgotten.”
Background	0:12 – 0:36	B-ROLL: Cross-dissolve to former band members posing with Dr. Hansbrough. VO: For more than a decade, Dr. Hansbrough served as Director of Bands at Lincoln High school in Tallahassee Florida.	To explain the interview’s purpose and introduce audiences to the subject.
		B-ROLL: Cross-dissolve to shots of the event. VO: Students remember someone who didn’t accept shortcuts but also the structure he brought to every day, and the feeling that they were part of something that mattered. What stands out now isn’t just the music — it’s what those years meant in their lives.
Interview	0:36 – 1:08	VO/SOT: Hansbrough: “As a teacher when you see your students be very successful that’s the whole reason you go into education.” VIDEO: Cut from archival B-roll to interview.	To establish relatability with audiences and gain valuable insights.

SOT: Hansbrough: “The fact that it was music, the fact that we did collective education, made us depend on one another. I will say this in all humbleness: I was lucky to be at those places in my career when I arrived. I was very lucky that i had that kind of support, those kinds of students that motivated me to do better and hopefully i did the same thing. When i see this, it comes to reality.”

CG: Dr. Robert Hansbrough.

Former Director of Bands and Honoree

PHOTO: Cut from Video to slow zoom on 1980’s band portraits.

VIDEO: Cut from Photos to interview.

Reflection	1:08 – 1:28	VO/SOT: Hansbrough: “It’s hard to talk about. It’s very touching. As you get older you can’t choke back your emotions as you can when you’re younger. When I see people who felt strongly enough to come to something like this, it warms an old man’s heart and brings happy tears to his eyes.”	To reiterate the most important points and start concluding the story.
------------	-------------	--	---

B-ROLL: Cross-dissolve to parade marching by and end.

Conclusion	1:28 – 1:32	VO/SOT LOCKOUT: From Tallahassee, Florida, I’m Lloyd Harger	To finish the story and inform audiences of the reporter’s name.
------------	-------------	---	---